

EBRIMA CEESAY

Acting Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General

I bring to the position over four decades of professional experience and extensive knowledge of management, administration and support services with particular focus on peace keeping and United Nations field operations.

During my service of over two decades with the United Nations, I served in MONUSCO, DRC as Director of Mission Support, in UNAMID, Sudan as Chief of Service Delivery and AG Director of Mission Support, in UNAMA Afghanistan as Chief Technical Services and UNMEE, Eritrea as Chief of Integrated Support Services. I also served in DOS, UNHQ as Chief of Section, Surface Transport Section. During the period with the United Nations, I have led mission transition efforts in Eritrea, Sudan and DRC.

Prior to my service with the United Nations, I served in the Gambian Government as Cabinet Minister with responsibilities for Transport and Telecommunications as well as Information and Media affairs. During the period, I led the reform and restructuring of state enterprises as well as the negotiation of interstate trade and transport agreements with neighboring countries.

I hold a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from Fourah Bay College, University of Sierra Leone and an MBA in Industrial Policy and Corporate Strategy from Maastricht School of Management in The Netherlands.

I am fully fluent in English, Mandingo, Wolof and I have a working knowledge of French and a fair knowledge of Arabic.